Latest Installment of Popular Paranormal Detective Series Delivers the Thrilling Combination of Crime and Romance

Los Angeles, CA (June 21, 2016) — Both loyal fans and new readers of a Series of Shadows saga by Mell Corcoran will not be disappointed by the third installment, Shadows May Fall. There is very little downtime in law enforcement, and detective Lou Donovan barely catches her breath before she finds herself in search of the latest killer – another twisted one at that. She must travel down a dark and deadly path in her pursuit, and there's no telling what lies ahead or what she may uncover along the way.

This high-stakes suspenseful plot is as fast-paced as ever. While trying to find her place within the world of the covert organization she has recently entered, Lou and her partner struggle to track down the newest savage murderer. Beyond this, Lou must also sort out the complicated feelings she has developed for Max – the man who is slowly becoming the most vital figure in her life. Lou must find her footing and sort out the perils and protocols of her new world before it all falls to shambles.

Shadows May Fall continues the tradition of a Series of Shadows chronicle with the perfect mixture of crime, romance and the paranormal. Exciting, unexpected twists keep readers riveted and desperate for more. Mell Corcoran has done it again. Fans will find themselves absorbed in Lou's world and rooting for her with every turn of the page.

About the Author

After nearly two decades working in the legal profession Mell Corcoran made a major career shift to pursue her passion as a writer. Author of the critically acclaimed Series of Shadows, including Shadows of Doubt and Shadows of Deceit, Mell found her bliss as a mystery-thriller writer.

A native Southern Californian, Mell was born into a large stereotypical Irish-American family, many in law enforcement, which fostered a unique perspective in her writing. She is an avid animal lover, hockey fan, would-be golfer and aspiring tech geek. Mell resides with her family just outside Los Angeles, California.
